Diamondhead Country Club before the mid-November fire...

Member survey complete

BY RICHARD MEEK
A new Diamondhead Country Club will soon be rising from the ashes of the spectacular, mid-November fire that claimed the original facility.
Diamondhead Property Owners Association General Manager Paul Montjoy said a committee has finished surveying club members regarding priorities for a new club.
"The consensus is that the new club will be more functional," Montjoy said. "One of the requests is for a ballroom area that could seat 300 people for dining and dancing. This would handle our Mardi-Gras balls (and other events)."
"When completed, it will be the only facility in Hancock County able to (handle such a large crowd)."
Montjoy added that the room will also be able to be transformed into a theatre-style setting to seat over 500. Additionally, the new club will contain a pro shop, bar and grill, dining area and meeting rooms.

"We will come out of this with a building to meet modern needs for the next 40 years," he said. "It will be low maintenance with low operating costs."
Montjoy said the renovation committee is currently in the process of interviewing architect firms. Once finished, the field will be narrowed to a small number of firms, and a design contest held, according to Montjoy. He said he is hoping the competition will be able to get started around the middle of February.
Demolition of the old facility is just about complete, and should be finished "in no more than two weeks," Montjoy said.
A new, temporary pro shop has been con-

Kittiwake truce reached in Pass

BY ED LEPOMA
The Mayor and citizens have reached a truce in the battle over the Kittiwake subdivision that sits at the eastern end of Pass Christian off Highway 90.
Residents have been trying, with little success, since 1989 to get the city to accept streets and water and sewer lines in the privately developed subdivision.
Some thought it was a "done deal" and claimed former Mayor Ted Lawyer had instructed City Attorney Malcolm Jones to file proper papers in Chancery Court whereby the city would approve the takeover.
They showed up at a December meeting to complain to Mayor Billy McDonald, who was elected to serve out Lawyer's unexpired term after he resigned for health reasons.

The residents, who live in a cluster of 14 homes in the subdivision, told McDonald they were already paying combined city taxes totaling more than $10,000 a year, and they couldn't understand the delay.
But, McDonald told them Kittiwake was a private development, and the city was under no obligation to accept and maintain their streets, and water and sewer lines.
In fact, McDonald had an engineer's report, which showed that several thousand dollars of work needed to be done

Pine Hills casino plans revised

BY MARY G. SEILEY
Developers have revised plans for a casino complex bordering Hancock County's line on the Pine Hills tract.
Details of the proposal were not immediately available; but one state official said the new plans eliminate the necessity to dredge a major canal to the tract -- a feature that led to the development's downfall in litigation last year.
The site is just east of the Hancock County line in Harrison County, with access off I-10 from DeLille Road.
Nevada developers optioned the tract at Pine Hills, after earlier plans to put a major development near Highway 603's intersection with I-10 became embroiled in controversy. With opponents geared to block that development through lawsuits, the developers let their option lapse and moved their development plans to the Pine Hills tract.

That tract too, however, became the subject of major controversy. The State Gaming Commission approved the site as a legal one for casino development, but the Mississippi Casino Operators Association fought the development in court -- and won with a Supreme Court decision last year.
That decision held that the Pine Hills tract was unacceptable, because developers needed to dredge a 1,200-foot channel to access the Bay of St. Louis, where the casino would be located.
Representatives of the landowners and developers declined comment Friday on the revised plans.
But the matter showed up on

Boudin to meet with district

BY ED LEPOMA
The Hancock County Solid Waste District wants to meet with businessman Joey Boudin before it renews his two-year option to continue hauling the county's garbage.
The District, meeting in its first session of the new year, indicated it would probably extend Boudin's lucrative contract, but his responsibilities to the District and to customers might be better defined.
Members voted to invite Boudin to its offices for a 2 p.m. workshop next Wednesday to iron out details.
Last week's meeting was attended by two new representatives on the Board: District 3 Supervisor Lisa Coward has been appointed to represent the newly inaugurated Board of Supervisors; and local businessman Thomas Kidd has been appointed by Mayor John Mason to represent Waveland on the board.
Mason was in attendance with Kidd, and County Comptroller, Patty Greer, who has been attending most of the District meetings for District 5 Supervisor Mike Ladner, was there to assist Coward.
District Chairman Les Fillingame briefed the new members on the history of Boudin's contract, and on the District's recent efforts to create a Solid Waste Authority.

Boudin, the son of civil Defense Director, Bobby Boudin, owns and operates Boudin's Waste and Recycling. He was awarded the contract for garbage pickup in Waveland and Bay St. Louis.

Task force revamped

BY ED LEPOMA
Hancock County's reorganized Drug Task Force is "up and running" and already making arrests, according to Sheriff Ronnie Peterson.
The multi-agency force, composed of officers from the Bay and Waveland Police Departments and the Sheriff's office, was rocked by scandal in late October when its director and two officers were arrested on extortion charges.
Since then, James Whitson, 45, hanged himself in his Biloxi apartment, an apparent suicide. Terry Eley, the director and a decorated veteran of the

Card of Thanks

I am writing this to publicly express my sincere appreciation to many people. My mother, Emma Louise Hodges died Oct. 21, 1995 after a long illness. The nursing staff of the Continuing Care Unit and physical therapists of Gulfport Memorial Hospital provided exceptional nursing care and emotional support.

My mother's life was honored by the many priests of the Episcopal churches of the Gulf Coast who participated in her funeral. Mrs. Debby Jones, Mrs. Wilma Howell, and the parishioners of St. Thomas Episcopal Church in Diamondhead were wonderfully supportive.

Mr. Bubba Lang and staff of Bradford O'Keefe Funeral Home were extraordinarily helpful, professional and kind. Mr. Roger Ishee of Floral Hills Cemetery was equally wonderful.

On the day of her funeral, the citizens, police and sheriff's deputies of Hancock and Harrison counties honored her with great courtesy and respect. I was deeply touched by the tribute of the many people who pulled over to the side of the road and waited as she went on her way to her final rest. It was as if a great lady was passing by, which in my yes, and in the eyes of those who loved her, she was.

I have always felt proud to be a resident of the Gulf Coast because of our people, and on that day, I was particularly so, and very grateful to all of you. For those who have lost a loved one, no greater honor could be given.

Please accept my heartfelt thanks and the gratitude of my family.

Sincerely,
 The Rev. Linda L. Lowry

police force, and David E. Parker, both of Bay St. Louis, are free after posting bonds of $100,000. Their trials have not yet been scheduled.

Peterson said the Drug Task Force was revamped in mid-December with cooperation from Bay Police Chief Frank McNeil and Waveland Police Chief Jimmy Varnell.

Originally, a three-man force, Shane Corr, a veteran of 10 years with the Bay Police Department, has been appointed director to "oversee and monitor" operations, Peterson said.

The force will consist of Deputy Sheriff Nathan (Corky) Hoda, a veteran of 13 years with the Sheriff's Office, Brett Ladner from the Waveland Police ranks, and Jeff Hare of the Bay Police force.

"We feel these individuals will do a very outstanding job," Peterson said. "They have made some arrests already."

Corr said the force has already made seven felony arrests on possession and two sales of crack cocaine, and one kilo of powdered cocaine has been seized.

He said the undercover force will also focus on activities of prostitutes in the area, since drugs are usually present in these situations.

Peterson said, in the near future, in cooperation with both police chiefs, the Drug Task Force will also assist in a "Traveling Criminal Apprehension Program," known in law enforcement circles as "T-Cap."

"We know there are drugs and money coming through on Interstate-10," said Peterson.

By March, we want to start a community effort to assist Bay and Waveland deputies on local streets and the highway patrol on I-10."

Peterson said special drug-sniffing canines would also be used in random road checks.

He said Tim Broder, another Sheriff's deputy will join the T-Cap program in March when another deputy completes training at the police academy.

Corr said new emphasis would also be placed on getting drugs out of local schools, and jails.

In cooperation with school board officials, he said drug dogs would be used on campus, and to randomly search vehicles in school parking lots, and to sniff out drugs that might be in county or city jails.

USM offers help to gambling addicts

By Rebecca Jermyn
Members of the University of Southern Mississippi community can now get specialized help if they feel they may be addicted to gambling.

Toni Houston, a full-time counselor at USM's Counseling Center, recently attended two 60-hour workshops sponsored by the Minnesota Counsel on Compulsive Gambling Training Institute to better understand compulsive gamblers and offer treatment.

Gambling is becoming more common in this area, Houston said, noting counseling for compulsive gamblers is rare because it's considered a relatively new problem.

"It can be just as serious as drug or alcohol addiction," Houston said.

Gambling addiction, known as pathological or compulsive gambling, is considered an illness and is categorized as a "disorder of impulse control" by the American Psychiatric Association.

The compulsive gambler differs from the other recreational or professional gamblers because he tries to "chase" his losses, Houston said. A compulsive gambler loses sight of priorities and feels that he or she has to win his money back after losing, with no concern about the cost to self, family or job.

The USM community needs to be aware of gambling addiction because of the convenience of casinos along the Mississippi Gulf Coast and the Mississippi River that pose attractive lures for college students, Houston said.

Many people go to casinos intending to take advantage of free beverages and entertainment without planning to gamble much, but they often wind up visiting convenient automated teller machines to get gambling cash. That can be the first step towards the illness of compulsive gambling, said Houston, an occasional gambler.

Houston, 28, a Pontotoc native, graduated from USM in 1989 and completed her first master's degree at the University of Mississippi. She currently is working on a second master's degree at USM.

Waveland Civic Association honored

The Waveland Civic Association has been named by the Mississippi Municipal Association as a winner of the association's 1996 Mid-Winter Making Mississippi Move Award.

In his letter of announcement, James Borsig, MMA executive director, wrote, "The judges were impressed by the Waveland Civic Association's dedication to the betterment of the social, cultural, charitable and benevolent activities of the citizens of Waveland and the surrounding communities. They define the term 'citizen volunteers' with their hours of volunteer time giving to their community. All of the judges agreed that there need to be more volunteers in Mississippi like the Waveland Civic Association."

"This is the second winning nomination that recognizes Waveland's active volunteer effort in the last year. Citizen volunteers are essential to our success as a community. This outstanding group deserves statewide recognition for their work. The city is proud to have facilitated this winning opportunity for the association," said Mayor John Mason.

Association President Jay Fountain will accept the award with Mason at MMA Mid-Winter Conference in Jackson Jan. 25.

Cedar Point women robbed at gunpoint

BY RICHARD MEEK

Two women were accosted by two male subjects, tied up with tape and robbed in their home in the Cedar Point area on New Year's Eve, Bay St. Louis Police Chief Frank McNeil said.

McNeil said the women entered their home at approximately 9:30 a.m. on Dec. 31 and were confronted by two white male subjects wearing ski masks and carrying handguns. One woman claims to have been struck in the head with a gun by one of the perpetrators, McNeil said.

The women were robbed of jewelry and currency, according to the chief. McNeil said shortly after the subjects fled, the women freed themselves and called authorities. One female apparently suffered lacerations on her hand, the chief said.

McNeil said the subjects are described as being about six foot two and weighing anywhere from 210-240 pounds. He said their mode of escape is uncertain at this time.

Also being investigated, McNeil said, is a possible link to a similar string of robberies in Harrison County.

"We are working with Harrison County officials," McNeil said. "But it is unclear if there is any connection."

Bay investigators Tom Burleson and Travis Foreman are trying to determine if the subjects were waiting for the women to arrive home, or if the women just happened to walk in during the course of the burglary.

McNeil said police had no suspects as of late Friday afternoon but were following up on several leads.

"CUEVAS' QUOTES"

By Ellis C. Cuevas

We received word on Thursday from United States Senators Trent Lott and Thad Cochran and United States Congressman Gene Taylor announcing a $794,440 grant from the U.S. Department of Transportation to rehabilitate and expand the Gulfport-Biloxi Regional Airport.

This is good news for the Biloxi-Airport, because there has been an increase in passenger and charter services at the facility.

The grant will deal with the updating of lighting and taxiways, and this will add and can lead to an increase in traffic and increased safety.

I do not know about you, not that I fly that much, still I much rather fly out of Gulfport than New Orleans.

I just hate to fight that traffic to the New Orleans Airport in Kenner.

Congressman Taylor's release reports that he is still working with airport and transportation officials to get a jet service into South Mississippi.

It would be good for jet service to return to the Gulfport-Biloxi Regional Airport, and I hope it will be in the near future.

Mardi Gras festivities are already underway, and the Bentz-Favre team has a fund raiser set for today.

They are one of the St. Paul's Carnival Association's two teams vying for top honors.

Today from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. they have a champagne brunch and fashion show at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Don Sprayberry, Menge Avenue, Pass Christian.

Admission is for a donation of $10 per person.

I am told the Leonard Bentz and Bonita Favre team plans on winning. By the way, Bonita Favre is the mother of Brett Favre, quarterback of the Green Bay Packers, who has been receiving all kinds of awards this season.

St. Paul's Carnival Association brings you the big Pass Christian Mardi Gras parade each year.

Congratulations are in order for the Waveland Civic Association upon being named the winner of the Mississippi Municipal Association's Mid-Winter Making Mississippi Move Award.

Waveland and the Civic Association can be very proud in receiving the great honor.

The Civic Association has been very active in Waveland since its inception many years ago.

Members of the association volunteer on many projects, and the groups largest event each year is the St. Patrick's Day parade.

A comment from the judges was that, "...There need to be more volunteers in Mississippi like the Waveland Civic Association..."

Association President Jay Fountain will accept the award at the MMA Mid-Winter Conference in Jackson on Jan. 25.

Just to give you some sneak information, the Anheuser-Busch Clydesdales are scheduled to come to town on February 5.

I understand there will be a big parade.

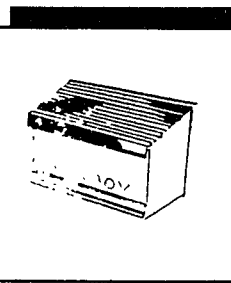

Cindy Vernon, chamber executive director, was beaming late Friday evening as she was telling me the news.

Particulars, location of the animal unloading, review and time are now being planned, Cindy said.

Genealogy introduction

On Dec. 14, the L. W. Anderson Genealogical Library was host to 24 Bay High students of Kay Sones' history classes. Ann Anderson (above) gave the students an introduction to genealogy, then she and five volunteers spent the day assisting the students in search for their family histories. Bound materials include records from more than 30 states and several foreign countries. The library is located at 827 Dunbar Avenue in Bay St. Louis. Hours are 9 a.m.-5 p.m. on Wednesday, 9 a.m.-3 p.m. on Thursday and Friday.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Resident feels Gulf Coast is unique, has special qualities

Dear Editor:

Let me begin by saying I am not a "Letter to the Editor" kind of person, although I do read them.

That being said, I want to applaud Mr. Jim Compton's (Alderman for the City of Biloxi) beautiful description of the Mississippi Gulf Coast that appeared in the Sun Herald a short time ago.

It was his way of pointing out the reasoning behind his votes. The Gulf of Mexico, the bayous, the oaks, the islands, the fishing, crabbing and shrimping; sailing, pleasure boating and our beautiful land side are our God-given treasures and must be preserved at all cost and not reduced to mimicking Las Vegas.

Mr. Compton touched the very soul of most Mississippi Gulf Coast residents in his description.

The Mississippi Gulf Coast is not Las Vegas nor should we ever try to pretend to be. After all, that's what sets us apart from all the others.

It is our uniqueness, our special qualities, our melting pot of religions and nationalities, and our great love and pride in our very special and particular way of life.

In most cases, it's who we are, what we are, and what we have to offer that draws people from all over the world to our area. Understandably, they fall in love with the Coast and its people.

The marriage between the Mississippi Gulf Coast and the casino industry can be and should be a relationship based on preserving all of the things that makes this area so very special while at the same time, adding even more amenities.

It's time everyone should understand clearly that there is no reason for us to change our way of life because we have embraced this industry.

It will also be to the casino industry's advantage that we don't change.

They have a wonderful marketing tool to bring "families" to the beautiful and safe Mississippi Gulf Coast.

The casinos have been a tremendous boost to our Coast economy. True, we have had to make some adjustments but, that is usually the case with any new industry.

Adjustments are only a very minor irritation to people, like us, who are hospitable, progressive and flexible, but firm in our reserve to keep our identity, character and way of life.

The revenues from the casinos have allowed our cities to repair badly deteriorated infrastructures, provide new services to many residents, has increased the monies to our schools who educate our children, have allowed for city and county employee pay raises, bought fire trucks and police cars, the hiring of new police officers and firemen and provided the monies to add new amenities in our cities that otherwise we could not have afforded.

In some cases, the increased revenues have allowed for a significant decrease in property tax. They have lowered the unemployment rate.

Regardless of whether you frequent the casinos or not, you have benefitted directly from their existence.

One of the best examples of all of the preceding is the City of Bay St. Louis under the leadership of Mayor Edward A. Favre.

They have made remarkable improvements that will benefit the citizens of that city for many years to come. Mayor Favre is a perfect example of progressive thinking, while at the same time, protecting the ambiance and way of life of that community.

The casinos have been good neighbors and have contributed generously to charitable organizations, churches and individuals in need.

In respect to our elected officials, be proud and supportive of those officials who put the best interest of our cities, county and us, the residents, in the forefront.

Remember, that's what you elected them to do. Trashing our cities with glitz and gaudiness is not in anyone's best interest, ours or the casinos. One of our Coast cities has had to live with glitz and gaudy for more years than I can remember.

They are a perfect example of the lack of planning and concerned leadership in years past. Controlled growth is vital. A class act is always more attractive and brings more positive results.

Constructive communication between us, our elected officials, and the casinos is the answer to producing a happy and prosperous marriage for all.

But, like any marriage, it takes a lot of work and cooperation on the part of everyone. Think about it.

Tax volunteers needed

If you enjoy helping other people, the IRS Volunteer Income Tax Assistance Program may have just the opportunity you are looking for.

VITA is a program that involves community volunteers to help people who need assistance in filling out their tax returns. In addition to actually completing the simpler tax forms for taxpayers, volunteers explain the special credits and deductions people may claim and calculate any refund that may be due them.

Volunteers receive free instructions and training materials at special seminars conducted across the state. The IRS has scheduled a series of these training sessions for persons who want to volunteer to assist with the free preparation of tax returns. The training is designed to cover the preparation of Forms 1040EZ and basic 1040.

Retirement homes, nursing homes and other Q's and A's

Editor's note: This column is being rerun because of a production error.

By Donald Mauffray, CVSO

Q. Does the federal government operate retirement homes for veterans?

A. Yes. Veterans may be eligible to live in two retirement homes run by the Armed Forces Retirement Home, an independent federal agency. For information, write to: Admissions Office, U.S. Soldiers' and Airmen's Home, Washington, DC 20317, or phone 1-800-422-9988; or write to: U.S. Naval Home, 1800 Beach Dr., Gulfport, MS 39507, or phone 1-800-332-3527.

Q. As a World War II veteran, am I eligible for nursing home care managed by the VA?

A. VA nursing home care is provided for veterans who are not in need of hospital care but who require nursing care and related psycho-social services in an institutional setting. VA may, but is not mandated to, provide nursing home care if space and resources are available in VA facilities.

Q. Is there a priority of eligibility for admission to a VA nursing home?

A. Yes. Veterans with a service-connected disability are given first priority for nursing home care.

Q. Does VA pay for private nursing home care?

A. In some instances, veterans who need nursing homes care may be transferred at VA expense to private nursing homes from VA medical centers, VA nursing homes, or VA domiciliaries, which provide rehabilitative and long-term health maintenance for veterans who require minimal medical care but do not need the skilled nursing services provided in nursing homes. Care in a private nursing home authorized by VA normally cannot exceed six months.

Q. The interest rate on my home loan guaranteed by the VA is much higher than those currently being offered by lenders. Does VA have a program to assist in refinancing home loans to reduce the interest rate?

A. Yes. VA urges veterans with interest rates on VA-guaranteed loans at least two percentage points higher than the current rate to refinance. This can be done with VA's Interest Rate Reduction Refinancing Loan (IRRRL), which is used strictly to reduce the interest rate on an existing VA-guaranteed loan and often requires no out-of-pocket cost to the veteran homeowner. The potential savings are quite substantial. Call the VA regional office at 1-800-827-1000 for a list of private lenders who offer IRRRLs in this area.

Q. I want to buy land to build a house on when I leave the Army. Can I use my VA-guaranteed home loan for this purpose?

A. No. A VA-guaranteed loan cannot be used to buy undeveloped land unless it is part of a package that includes building a house.

Q. Do I have to live in the house I buy or build with a VA-guaranteed loan?

A. Veterans must certify that they intend to live in the home they are buying or building with a VA-guaranteed loan.

REFLECTIONS ON LIFE

By Father Jerome LeDoux, SVD

There seemed to be a rustling sound just inside the door after I rang the doorbell. I listened a bit longer, then rang again. The rustling noise sounded once more, quickly followed by a nervous voice: "Daddy, put that rifle away!"

It was the voice of Sophie, the eldest daughter of Wilbert White Sr. of Baton Rouge. The hilarious picture of Wilbert standing guard at the door with a gun materialized in my mind immediately. That thought was too comical to be frightening.

Admittedly, the hour of 1:30 a.m. was very late — or very early — and therefore suspect of itself. Yet, it was not at all unusual for me to drop off the I-10 and stop by at that hour, or even a bit later, for dependable, friendly lodging.

That was but one of numerous humorous incidents involving the rollicking White family. More recently, it was the police pulling up behind me as I stood on the porch attempting to make myself heard and understood from within.

In that case, JoAnne, the middle sister, unacquainted with the passage of late night riders, mistook me for a would-be intruder and immediately called 911. Inngcently, I walked out to the squad car and inquired what the problem was.

Wilbert Sr. could have easily gone into a franchising business with the smoked chickens he was famous for cooking. I, for one, am a satisfied witness to not having tasted a better smoked chicken anywhere at any time.

Louise, his mate of more than half a century, completed the atmosphere on Myrtle Street which made anyone entering feel like sloughing jackets, kicking off shoes and relaxing. For so many of us, it was literally home away from home.

Somehow, there was an Old Testament ambience around their home, harking back to the matriarchs and patriarchs of old.

"Happy are all who fear the Lord, who walk in the ways of God. What your hands provide you will enjoy; you will be happy and prosper. Like a fruitful vine your wife within your home; like olive plants your children around your table" (Ps. 128:1-3).

This gave people like myself a distinct feeling of an extended family with more sisters and brothers of my own, and with a spare set of parents to call my own. I saw my own mother and father in the faces of Louise and Wilbert.

Louise is now 91 and severely hampered by Alzheimer's disease or an imposter. Apparently, she no longer knows me or most other people, which is so reminiscent of my own mother burdened with the same disease atop her 94 and a half years.

A year her senior, Wilbert had been her constant companion in health and, most recently, in sickness, until December when he succumbed to the ravages of diabetes. It began to close a wonderful chapter in mine and in the life of many.

"Accompanying (Jesus) where the Twelve and some women who had been cured of evil spirits and infirmities: Mary, called Magdalene, from whom seven demons had gone out, Joanna, the wife of Herod's steward Chuza, Susanna, and many others who provided for them out of their resources" (Lk. 8:1-3).

Almost 20 centuries later, there are still individuals and families who minister to the needs of God's evangelists, of whom I count myself one. Thank you, Lord, for people like the Whites who open their doors and their hearts to wayfarers.

COOKING UP A STORM

By Katy McGuire Caire

One of the easiest shrimp dishes, that is, it's easy after you've finished the tedious task of shelling the shrimp, is "Shrimp Amandine" or "Shrimp with almonds."

The shrimp, after they are peeled, are marinated for a few hours, then sauteed with the almonds and seasonings.

Served over rice, and accompanied by a crisp green salad, this dish makes a tasty meal. The shrimp, without the rice, are excellent appetizers. Here's:

SHRIMP AMANDINE
3 lbs. shrimp, peeled
1/2 cup olive oil
3 Tbsp. vegetable oil

Shrimp Amandine

1/2 cup lemon juice, preferably fresh
6 Tbsp. butter or margarine
2 cloves garlic, finely chopped
1 cup slivered almonds
2 dashes of Tabasco
4 to 6 Tbsp. Chablis or other dry white wine
1/2 cup finely chopped green onions
1/2 tsp. salt, optional

After peeling the shrimp, marinate them in the olive oil, vegetable oil, lemon juice and garlic for 2 hours. Then, remove the shrimp, reserving the marinade.

Melt the butter or margarine, and saute the shrimp and onions for just a few minutes, six or so until the shrimp turn pink, then remove the shrimp and onions to a warm platter.

Add the almonds, salt and reserved marinade to the butter in the skillet, bring to a boil and quickly reduce the heat and simmer, along with the Tabasco and the wine, for 3 or 4 minutes. Pour over the shrimp in platter. Serve over rice. (6 servings)

Pecans, in place of the almonds, are tasty in this dish also.

Proper use of child safety seats explained

Many children are missing the lifesaving advantages of child safety seats because the seats are not being used properly, according to the Mississippi Division of Public Safety Planning.

"Safety seats can be the best protection a child has in a motor vehicle crash," said Donald O'Cain, Public Safety Planning's executive director and governor's representative for highway safety.

Safety seats for infants weighing under 20 pounds should be rear-facing, and these infants never should be in the front passenger seat of vehicles with air bags. A rear-facing safety seat sits too close to the dashboard; when the air bag inflates, it could hit the back of the safety seat with enough force to injure the infant.

Toddlers weighing from 20 to 40 pounds or 40 inches in height should be in safety seats facing forward, and the harness straps for the seats should be adjusted for the child's height. With the toddler in this position, it's important to slide the vehicle's seat as far back as it will go.

Preschoolers weighing 40 pounds or more should be placed in either a toddler car seat or booster seat facing forward. Booster seats with shields may be used when only a lap belt is available, and those with removable shields may be used when lap and shoulder belts are available. It's important to be sure the lap belt fits low and tight to avoid abdominal injuries.

"Whenever possible," O'Cain said, "put children in the back seat. It's always safer than the front seat."

O'Cain emphasized that household infant carriers never should be used as vehicle safety seats and that parents never should travel with children in their arms.

"A child in a mother's arms is a candidate for serious injuries or death in a motor vehicle crash because the force of a crash, even when the vehicle is traveling as slow as 30 miles per hour, will pull a child out of the arms."

"Everyone riding in a motor vehicle always should buckle up," he said. "An unrestrained person, big or small, can be thrown into other passengers, against interior surfaces of the vehicle or onto the pavement."

Mississippi law requires that all drivers and front-seat passengers use safety belts or child safety devices and that all children under age 4 be buckled into child safety devices.

"If there's any doubt about the proper use of child safety seats, look in your vehicle owner's manual or contact Sandra Hultz, child injury prevention coordinator, Mississippi State Department of Health, Division of Emergency Services at 987-3880," O'Cain said.

"There's no valid reason for not using child safety devices," he noted. "If you cannot afford one, you can obtain a safety seat as a loan from organizations across Mississippi."

GAINING A SAFE RETURN

It is illegal for a parent to disobey a court's custody order by taking a child away from the other parent. In fact, this form of kidnapping goes by the name of "child snatching." At one time, it was difficult to enlist the aid of legal authorities when a child was moved across state lines because the custody award of one state was not honored by other states. Now, federal and state laws mandate that all states uphold the custody decrees of other states, as long as the court had proper jurisdiction under the Uniform Child Custody Jurisdiction Act.

District

and in rural parts of Hancock County in 1994, after he bid substantially lower than the giant garbage haulers on the Coast-Browning-Ferris and Waste Management Inc.

He has a fleet of about 16 trucks, and employs about 25 to 30 people to pick up household garbage throughout the county. The cities get pickup twice a week, and rural areas, once a week, but more recently, the District amended Boudin's contract to pay him an additional $7,500 a month for picking up bulky items, such as sofas and refrigerators.

Boudin's two-year contract with the city has paid him about $1.2 million, plus an additional $15,000 he has been paid since the new bulky pickup service was added last Nov. 1.

His contract with the county expires Feb. 29, and Fillingame said the District had to decide soon whether to extend Boudin's two-year option or put the contract out to public bid.

Mason said, "I don't have any problem with him (Boudin). New bids could come back a lot higher, and the service has been adequate."

Fillingame said there has been customer complaints about irregular operating hours, and about missed or skipped customers.

He said he would go over the contract with the District's engineer within the next few days "to strengthen wording on how he (Boudin) should handle complaints."

He said it was his feeling that Boudin is administering the contract 97 percent right and about three percent wrong.

Fillingame did not touch on another controversy that erupted last September when residents of Bayou Phillips went to supervisors, then picketed in the street over Boudin's plans to move his operations onto Harbor Drive.

They complained a maintenance facility and truck marshalling yard there would decrease property values, increase heavy truck traffic, and the smell of garbage trucks being parked overnight would foul their neighborhood.

They also claimed Boudin's garbage men didn't pick up at houses of some citizens who complained to the media, but Boudin denied the charges.

Boudin appears to be going forward with his plans to relocate his operations to a 10-acre site he owns on Harbor Drive, although he told protesters he would sell the property and relocate elsewhere, if he got a buyer. He said this week that a slab has been poured, but recent rains have hindered any further progress.

Legally, Boudin can move his business there and operate out of the site, since it is in the unincorporated area of Hancock County, and there are no zoning restrictions in place.

Fillingame also briefed new members on the District's request to become a "Solid Waste Authority."

He said Bay St. Louis and Waveland have approved the request, but supervisors have twice balked at starting the incorporation process.

Fillingame said the District needed to become an Authority in order to negotiate with the county school board to purchase Section 16 land it needs in Standard for a county landfill.

District Attorney Lucien Gex explained that the proposed incorporation was an "inter-local agreement."

"By that," he said, "anything the authority would do to expend a large amount of funds or to increase current garbage rates would require a unanimous vote of all three entities."

He said there was no point in incorporating, "if one entity doesn't want to go forward."

Cowand, whose District 3 encompasses the Standard Community, asked several questions about the proposed landfill, including what the county has expended so far on the permitting process.

She also asked the District to provide some estimates on what it might cost to continue dumping in the Pecan Grove landfill in western Harrison County.

Boudin now dumps Hancock County's solid waste in that landfill operated by Waste Management, Inc., at a cost of about $20 a ton. That contract comes up for renewal next March.

Fillingame has contended the county's cost of dumping at its own landfill would be cut in half—to $10 a ton, and revenues to the county for letting others use the landfill could amount to between $7 million and $8 million over the 20-year life of the facility.

He also told Cowand if supervisors decide not to create an authority, they would have to negotiate the land deal with the school board, and the board would hold title to the landfill permit, if they decide to go forward in Standard.

The District, however, would still be in charge of managing the county's 20-year solid waste and recycling plan, he said.

McDonald said the city was nearly broke, but he would try to work with them to find a solution to the situation.

A private meeting was then scheduled between residents in the Mayor's office sometime before Christmas. The Echo later learned that meeting was abruptly terminated when the Mayor said he was verbally abused by residents.

Despite the behind-the-scenes squabble, McDonald apparently continued his efforts to resolve the impasse, and announced his plans at Wednesday night's meeting.

The first monthly meeting of the new year of the Mayor and Board of Aldermen was attended by several citizens of Kittiwake, who seemed ready to go another round with the Mayor.

"Let me tell you what has transpired," McDonald told them at the outset, in an apparent attempt to try and defuse the situation.

"What I was elected to do is to try to do the best I can do for the city."

He explained that Kittiwake's dilemma was not the fault of the city, but of the developer, and the people who elected to buy in the subdivision.

However, McDonald, who served several years as a Harrison County Supervisor, said he asked and received help from District 3 Supervisor David LaRosa.

McDonald said LaRosa has pledged to make county funds available—within three to six months—to make needed improvements in Kittiwake.

He said LaRosa first will ask engineers with the Public Service Commission to check water and sewer lines, and make repair recommendations.

After the repairs are made, McDonald said the city will file papers to accept the subdivision.

Most people, including District 2 Alderman Margaret Jean

Kalif, seemed pleased by the mayor's diplomacy, and that the county would finance repairs.

"I'm tickled pink," she said. "I support the mayor's position. It is very acceptable."

A few others in the room complained briefly again about another delay, but one unidentified person yelled out, "Shut up, Girl. You got what you wanted. You'd better quit while you're ahead."

In other business, the Board of Aldermen gave the go-ahead for the Harbor Commission to go out to public bids on the first of a series of improvements.

The Commission will advertise for bids to replace the mooring piling and pier decking at the City Harbor.

It is among $150,000 in improvements and repairs that will be financed at the harbor in the coming year with the city's share of Tideland funds.

Aldermen approved the claims docket for the month, with Ward 1 Alderman Jeff Emerson objecting only to the last claim on the docket, a $125 monthly retainer fee being paid Moore and Powell, the city's auditing firm.

Emerson mentioned that the city hired away Sandy Adams from Moore and Powell, and she now serves as city comptroller.

The retainer charge is for any questions the city might have about its finances, but Emerson said he thinks the city can get a better price, and he would like to explore other options.

a Gaming Commission agenda for discussion during a special meeting that was to be held Jan. 8. The meeting has been canceled.

Commission spokesman Warren Strain said the commission has decided it wants the proposal to go through other regulatory steps before the commission considers the site again. State and federal environmental agency representatives, he said, met with the project's backers and commission staffers earlier this week, and appeared close to agreement on major points that need to be resolved.

But requiring environmental approval before the commission tackles the site question again, said Strain, should help avert protracted legal contests over the plans in the future.

Strain said the proposal concerns the same tract of land, but in a "reconfigured" layout of development, affecting land that's predominately above mean high tide.

The channel-digging once proposed to access the Bay, he said, is no longer in question. Plans call for accessing the casino in the Bay by sometype of walkway, Strain said, although plans have not been finalized on the access mechanism.

Nearby, in Diamondhead, developers of Casino World casino have similar plans to locate gaming in the Bay — without dredging through sensitive marshlands.

The Gaming Commission recently granted site approval for Casino World's development. That proposal is now undergoing review by federal and state environmental permitting officials.

Kip Reddien, chief executive officer of Casino World Inc., said Friday he's aware that Pine Hill developers are exploring "various configurations" for their development. He said the Pine Hills tract is, "like ours, an excellent location."

Aside from environmental questions, the development of casinos with direct access to I-10 has presented a major point of contention for opponents. Existing casino operators have opposed moves to locate gaming anywhere "inland," including sites that are connected to the Bay of St. Louis by dredging, or on bayous or rivers leading to the Mississippi Sound.

Some casino interests fear that allowing casinos with direct access to I-10 will be a setback to business for those already developed in Gulfport and Biloxi along Highway 90.

The executive director of the Mississippi Casino Operators Association, Beverly Martin, said Friday she did not know details of the proposed revamp of the Pine Hills project.

Rocks rip Tigers for Cup

BY JOE GEX

St. Stanislaus easily defeated Bay High 81-43 in the 5th Annual Mayor's Cup game Friday night in front of a tiny crowd at Stanislaus.

The Rock-a-chaws scored off of the opening tip and were never seriously threatened. SSC led 44-20 at the half, and stretched the margin to as many as 42 points in the third quarter.

"(Stanislaus) didn't do anything I didn't expect," Bay High coach Steve Austin said. "They are fundamentally sound and bigger than we are."

"Size is a big factor in all of our games."

Maurice Singleton, named MVP for the Rocks, led Stanislaus with 17 points. Terry Lawyer had 11 points and nine rebounds.

Mike Fenasci scored 12 points for the Rocks, 17-5 overall, 5-0 in district.

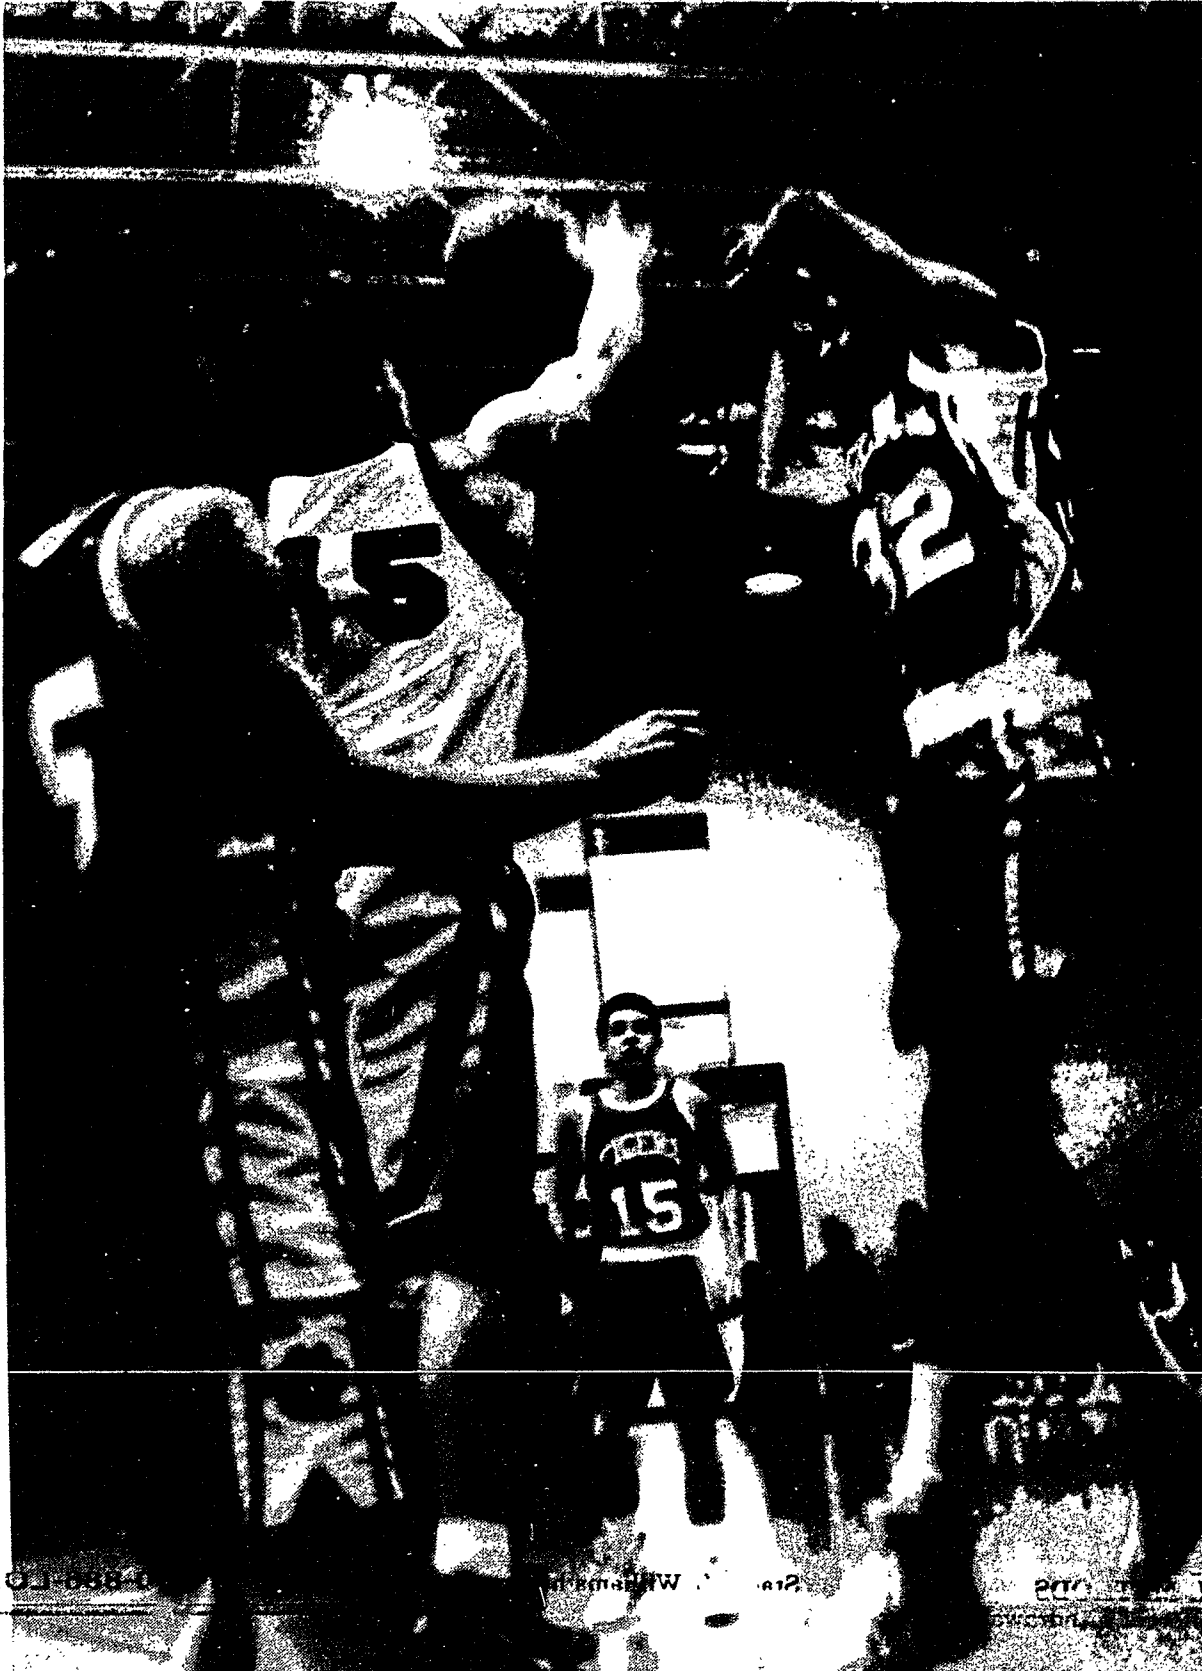

Mark Price led the Tigers, 2-17, 1-5, with nine points. Ricky Soldine added six points and was named MVP for Bay High.

The Tigers managed to keep it close in the first quarter but were outscored 24-8 in the second. Bay High scored only one field goal in the decisive period.

"I was proud of the effort of our guys tonight," Rock coach Jay Ladner said. "Bay High came out after us and played hard."

"We played some solid defense and took care of the ball. That was the key to our win tonight."

Bay St. Louis City Council President Tad Black and Waveland Mayor John Mason presented the MVP and team trophies.

Lawyer leads SCC over Pass Christian

BY JOSEPH W. GEX II

The St. Stanislaus Rock-a-chaw basketball team swept three games from the visiting Pass Christian Pirates on Jan. 3.

The ninth grade Rocks defeated the Pirates 55-46 behind the high scoring Paul Farve who led all scorers with 25 points.

In junior varsity action, the JV Rocks crushed the Pirates 59-39. SSC held a commanding 32-15 halftime lead.

In varsity action, the Rocks survived a late rally by the Pirates to win 50-47.

Terry Lawyer led the Rocks with 22 points and 14 rebounds while Matt Kopfler added 10 points and five rebounds. Kelton Thompson scored eight points and Matt Roth scored six points for the Rocks.

The Pirates were led by Darrell Dedeaux with 10 points and Keith Macon and Wayne Dedeaux with nine points each.

The Rocks jumped ahead 18-10 in the first period behind Lawyer's eight points. However, the Pirates charged back and pulled to within four points at 32-28 by halftime.

The Pirates took their only lead of the night at the 3:15 mark of the fourth period on a Wayne Dedeaux three-pointer that made the score 47-45.

The Rocks scored the last five points of the contest with Lawyer hitting two key free throws that put the Rocks up by three with :34 left in the game.

Coach Jay Ladner commented, "It was a tough one. Give all the credit to Pass Christian because they came after us and never gave up."

"I don't think we played particularly poor but they played well and had a few guys that played tonight that did not play against us the first time we played early in the season."

"However, we showed that we can win the close one tonight."

BACKACHE.

The little pain that lasts and lasts.

Back pain often starts small. Sometimes it disappears; usually it returns; often it gets worse. If left untreated, back pain can linger for years as a nagging reminder that all is not well.

Your job may be the culprit; you may sit all day hunched over a desk; you may lift heavy objects; you may be constantly bending over, caring for children. These are common causes of misaligned vertebrae of the spine and may be good reasons why you have back pain.

And because the spine is a complex system which is connected to other areas of the body, misaligned vertebrae in the spine can also be the reason for tension, stiffness, fatigue and more specifically back pain and headaches.

Our doctors at HODA CHIROPRACTIC CLINICS are specialists in back care. They can restore spinal vertebrae to their proper position, relieving pain and avoiding further complications.

Make this the last morning your back is left untreated. See Dr. Desmond W. Hoda.

How to withdraw from your mutual fund

It's easy to find all kinds of advice about putting your money away: how to accumulate a retirement fund, what kinds of investments to buy, how much you should save. But deciding how to take money out of your investments can be just as important. Should you take it all in a lump sum, withdraw a fixed amount each year, or base withdrawals on the investment's value? The method you choose may depend on tax considerations, regulations pertaining to IRA withdrawals, your age and your income needs.

With mutual funds, you'll also want to consider the fund's investment objective. Different types of funds lend themselves to different methods of withdrawal. Following are four ways to take withdrawals from mutual funds, along with an example illustrating how each option affects the amount withdrawn and the ending account balance.

Taking dividends in cash typically means you get a check every three months. These checks will vary as the dividends go up and down. Growth-and-income funds, balanced funds and income funds are best-suited for cash dividend payments.

Growth funds, on the other hand, typically pay small dividends and therefore are generally not best for this method of withdrawal. In our example, a $100,000 investment in a middle-of-the-road growth-and-income fund yielded $362,233 in dividends over a 20-year period. Only the dividends were withdrawn; the original principal was left to compound, resulting in an ending value of more than $700,000.

Fixed withdrawals are ideal for investors who need regular monthly checks. In our example, the investor received $500 every month for 20 years, regardless of the mutual fund's dividends and capital gains. After 20 years, the investor had received $120,000; the remaining dividends and capital gains were reinvested, resulting in an ending value of $1.3 million.

Self-adjusting withdrawals pay out a fixed percentage of the fund's value. At the end of each year, the fund's value is calculated, and the following year's withdrawals are based on that value. Obviously, withdrawals will fluctuate with this method. If the fund increases in value, so do monthly checks the following year, and vice versa.

In our example, the investor received 6 percent of the fund's prior-year value each year. This method provided about three times more income than the fixed plan, resulting in an ending value that was about half as much.

Neither fixed nor self-adjusting withdrawals are suitable for aggressive growth funds.

Self-liquidation plans are designed to exhaust your principal over a specific period of time. These plans are set up to provide maximum income. In our example, the income from this method is about double that of the self-adjusting method and almost seven times as much as the fixed withdrawal plan. Self-liquidation plans can be effective for the mandatory liquidation of an IRA.

Most investors spend a lot of time determining the best ways to build wealth. How to tap into that wealth when you need it is also an important decision.

Before you begin withdrawals, review your funds and their objectives, and have your investment representative prepare hypothetical illustrations based on historical performance. As you can see, the choice you make can make a big difference in the amount of income you receive as well as the principal that's left.

IMPACT OF MUTUAL FUND WITHDRAWAL METHODS

The following illustrates how four different withdrawal methods over the period Jan. 1, 1975 to Dec. 31, 1994, would have affected the amount withdrawn and the ending balance of a specific mutual fund. All methods assume an initial investment of $100,000 on Jan. 1, 1975.

Method	Total value of fund, 12/31/94	Total value of withdrawals	Remaining value of fund, 12/31/94
Taking Dividends in Cash	$362,233	$710,456	$710,456
Fixed Withdrawals of $5,000 per year	$120,000	$1,349,907	$1,349,907
Self-adjusting Withdrawals (6 percent of prior-year ending value)	$432,514	$649,456	$649,456
Self-liquidation Program	$803,532	$0	$0

This hypothetical example illustrates the past performance of a specific mutual fund. It is not an indication of future performance of this or any other fund.

Special opportunity for classes

Hancock North Central Elementary's second grade had an opportunity to make ornaments for the state Christmas tree in Jackson. The fifth grade also participated. The ornaments were made and sent. In December, the classes took a field trip to Jackson. They visited the Governor's Mansion, the State Capitol, and the Natural Science Museum. They ate lunch at Smith Park in downtown Jackson. All of the food for their lunch was donated by local merchants. Pictured is Sandy Garriga's second grade class.

Christmas Event

During Advent, St. Paul's Catholic School in Pass Christian prepared for Christmas with a "Jesse Tree" that was set up in front of the office. This is a small tree decorated with ornaments that symbolize Jesus' ancestors and events in the Bible leading up to Jesus' birth. The "Jesse Tree" was appropriate for Advent because it represents how the world waited for the birth of Jesus, just as during Advent the world waits and prepares for Christmas. St. Paul fifth graders Jami English and Ryan Davis (front row from left) and Meghan Swilley and Robert Reso (back row from left) surround the "Jesse Tree" that was decorated with ornaments made by students and teachers.

ADVENT COMPUTERS, INC.
PUTS THE WORLD AT YOUR FINGERTIPS!

Advent Computers Inc., located in Colonial Plaza in Bay St. Louis next to Peoples Bank, can serve all of your computing needs. If you have not yet bought a computer or if you are interested in upgrading your existing computer, Advent Computers Inc. can help. Advent Computers can handle most repairs either in-house or at the computer owners location. We offer a full line of software for the I.B.M. compatible computer ranging from educational to entertainment to home and business. We will soon be offering classes for a variety of subject areas like DOS, Windows, and others.

We are in the process of installing computers on a network for head to head game play for games like Doom, Doom2 and others. With an increasing number of software manufacturers writing their games with head to head game play capabilities, the number of titles being offered by Advent Computers Inc. will constantly be increasing. The idea of head to head play adds many dimensions to some games. The computer has always been a difficult opponent since it doesn't make the mistakes that a human player can make. With another player in the same arena, the action is more lifelike.

If you're still wondering why you need a computer, just look around. There are few areas of everyday life untouched by some form of computer technology. The Internet is one of the newest of these. Never before has so much information been right at a persons fingertips.

Most programs offer some type of browser that lets the user simply type in a subject of interest and then lists a large number of possible locations for the particular information to be found.

If you are confused about what the internet is or what the difference is between the internet and American Online or Compuserve or one of the many other online services, here is a short explanation. Online services are just like a department store. These companies offer services like magazines and other publications online as well as research topics. Each company's goal is to offer as many services or products as possible to win you over as a customer. You will pay more per hour for these services than you would for the internet, but there are usually no other charges for each service provided by the company. On the other hand, the internet provides you with a much larger information base simply because there are many different computers linked together all over the world. The internet is more like a free market. There are companies that are advertising their products just as they would in the newspaper. The internet is also a source for information. Most states have a page or location on the internet that offers information about their state for advertising purposes. Each location on the internet is given an address just as you have for your mailing address. Many people will be using this form of mail as opposed to the normal postal service. Banking can be done by computer as well.

It has been said that by the turn of the century, around 50% of the population will be working out of their home. In other words, people will be changing from commuter to computer.

12B-THE SEA COAST ECHO—SUNDAY, JANUARY 7, 1996

Special events highlight Caribbean art exhibition

Family workshops, a film and a lecture will complement the New Orleans Museum of Art's upcoming exhibition Caribbean Visions: Contemporary Painting and Sculpture going on display Jan. 27 through May 24 in the Ella West Freeman gallery on the first floor.

Providing an extensive overview of contemporary Caribbean art, Caribbean Visions is the first major exhibition to highlight the region's heritage and multi-ethnic make-up. Artists from several island nations, including Jamaica, Puerto Rico, St. Thomas, Barbados, Cuba, Haiti and Tobago will be featured in the exhibition which showcases 92 works.

Educational events and programs scheduled especially for the exhibition include a slide lecture and family workshops. On Sunday, Jan. 28, guest curator Dr. Samella Lewis will lecture on Caribbean Visions from the point of view of the artists who produced the exhibition with a focus on the individual qualities of the works as well as the influences of the large cultural spectrum of these diverse island nations.

Lewis is a professor emerita of art history at Scripps College in California. The lecture begins at 3 p.m. and is free with museum admission.

Several family workshops will coincide with the exhibition as well. Family workshops are offered on Sunday afternoons from 2-4 p.m. and are open to children between 5-12 years of age. Children must be accompanied by an adult. Cost is $5 per family for museum members and $6 per family plus the cost of museum admission for non-members. All art supplies are provided by NOMA.

Registration is requested and may be made by calling 483-2746.

Workshop attendees will be given a guided tour of Caribbean Visions prior to beginning their art projects to study the various styles and techniques and draw inspiration from the many artists whose works are featured in the exhibition.

Three separate workshop programs are planned. A Monoprint Experience offered Feb. 25 explores the process of painting on plexiglass. What a Relief set for March 17 focuses on the human figure and the process of relief sculpture. Attendees will create a figural representation in clay using relief sculpture techniques. Images of the Figure offered March 24 will utilize both painting and collage techniques to create an artistic study of the human figure.

The exhibition will also be accompanied by a full-color catalog with essays by seven leading Caribbean scholars. The catalog will be available for purchase in NOMA's Museum Shop.

Also screening in the museum's Stern Auditorium will be a 19-minute video presentation which will introduce visitors to a variety of Caribbean cultural experiences, including the annual Carnival celebrations as well as offer interviews with the featured artists and scholars.

The exhibition is organized and circulated by Art Services International and is supported by the Lila Wallace-Reader's Digest Fund. Additional support is provided by Metropolitan Life Foundation, the Barbados Investment and Development Corporation, and the Puerto Rican Economic Development Commission.

New Orleans artist Luis Cruz Azaceta, whose work is in NOMA's permanent collection, is one of the 56 featured artists in Caribbean Visions. Other artists who lent works for the exhibition include Tomas Esson, Lia Galletti, Myrna Baez, Juan Carlos Toca and Albert Chong, among many others.

The exhibition is open to visitors during normal museum operating hours, Tuesday through Sunday, from 10 a.m. until 5 p.m. (The museum and the exhibition will be closed Tuesday, Feb. 20 for Mardi Gras). Entrance to the exhibition is included in the price of admission, $6 for adults, $5 for seniors (65 and over) and $3 for children 3 through 17.

Mississippi Symphony Orchestra 'Clef Notes' program, luncheon

The Mississippi Symphony Orchestra will present a listen and learn "Clef Notes" luncheon program Monday, Jan. 8, prior to the fourth concert in the Connoisseur Series, scheduled for Tuesday, Jan. 9.

The Clef Notes luncheon will feature a program by Colman Pearce, music director/principal conductor, and Jon Wenberg, bassoonist. The luncheon will be at 11:45 a.m. Monday, Jan. 8 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Pat H. Scanlon, 4336 North Honeysuckle Lane, Jackson.

Price of the luncheon and program is $11 per person, and advance reservations must be made by Friday, Jan. 5 to either Carlene Scanlon, 362-1598, or the Mississippi Symphony Orchestra offices, 960-1565.

Individual tickets for the Jan. 9 Connoisseur concert are $12 for adults and $6 for students and senior citizens. Tickets will be available at the door of the concert and through the symphony offices, 201 East Pascagoula Street, or by calling 960-1565 in Jackson or 1-800-898-5050 within Mississippi.

Jon Wenberg

The Jan. 9 concert will feature Jon Wenberg, bassoon. Works to be performed will include Symphony No. 3 in C by William Boyce; Concert for Bassoon in B-flat by W. Amadeus Mozart; and Shaker Loops, for string orchestra, by John Adams.

Wenberg is currently in his third year as principal bassoonist of the Mississippi Symphony Orchestra. Originally from rural Wisconsin, Wenberg studied at Northwestern University, where he received his bachelor's and master's degrees in bassoon performance. He also studied for one year at the Cincinnati University College Conservatory of Music as an artist diploma student.

Along with his college studies, Wenberg has been a student for five summers at the Aspen Music Festival. Free art workshop for kids, adults

The Walter Anderson Museum of Art and International Paper, Moss Point Mill, are sponsoring two free art workshops on Saturday, Jan. 13. The children's session will take place from 10 a.m.-12 p.m. and the adults' workshop will run from 1-3 p.m.

The workshop will be conducted by Pass Christian artist Joseph Pearson, who will lead the children in different aspects of drawing with crayon (children must be ages 7 to 12) and exploring charcoal drawing with teens and adults.

"My goal is to create art that is reflective of the 'everyday' and expresses the importance of life in general," explains Pearson. Both sessions will take place in the Walter Anderson Museum Activity Center, directory across the street from the museum. Call 872-3164 for reservations.

This is the second year that International Paper-Moss Point Mill has sponsored art activities for children at The Walter Anderson Museum of Art. IP allotted additional funds this year, allowing the museum to host afternoon workshops for adults.
